

Supporting Sites of Clinical Research

Trimanos – Take the Trial Train

If you are thinking of starting in clinical research, especially as a small site; or if you are doing studies already but have problems; or just feel the need for expert support; if you are experiencing staff turnover and need training or even interim management expertise, not least in the daunting financial and project management challenges, please contact Trimanos. The greatest need is confidence that what you are doing is right, we can help you get this.

In any year, as many as 50% of sites may do one trial and then stop. Why do they – why do you - give up? What can be done to retain and assist them - you - at a time when the need for good quality trials, and hence good quality sites, has never been greater. For the past twenty years, none of the approaches to improve the overall performance of clinical research sites has shown sustainable benefit.

Trimanos believes it can change this situation by focusing on what sites need to do to succeed and understand their needs better.

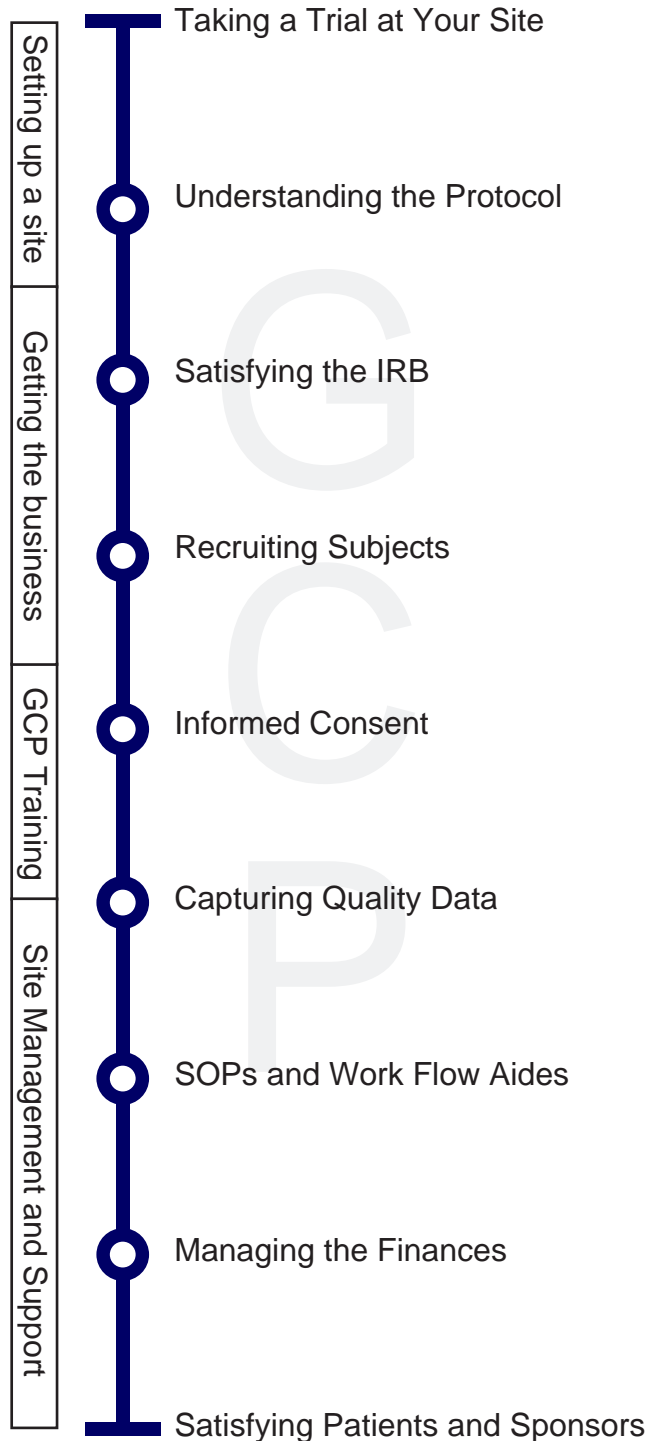

- Why do sites engage in clinical research in the first place?
- What can conducting trials do to enhance sites' overall ability to serve their patients' and their community's needs?
- What non-research challenges, especially in finance and administration, may be getting in the way of a site's capacity to succeed?
- What other stakeholders, especially patients and sponsors, are essential to a site's success, and how can these key relationships be better managed?

Trimanos LLC was founded in January 2002 by leaders in clinical research who believe a new approach is needed to meet the needs of clinical research sites. Trimanos responds to this challenge by including all stakeholders in clinical research, including sponsors and regulators

Trimanos has offices in the US and Europe and affiliates in Japan. It can help you start up and maintain a successful role in clinical research. Or, if you are one of the many sites who has had no success, this time you could succeed. Trimanos can help you get back and this time succeed. No judgments, or post-mortems. Just sound experience and practical help.

Trimanos is available on-line – in strict confidence of course – and face-to-face. We can assist with both pharmaceutical and device studies.

Good sites make happy sponsors.
